5. Discussion/Updates

a. Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Subcommittee – Labor Acknowledgement (15:43)

Commissioner Shakoor gave a report out about the work the DEI subcommittee has started, with the facilitation of Chevi Chung, in crafting a Labor Acknowledgement. The hope is that the Labor Acknowledgement will help people understand the legacies of slavery, the lack of recourse, and disparities in expectations for Black and Brown people. The acknowledgement provides an opportunity to honor the labor and contributions of Black and Brown staff and commissioners. The subcommittee would like more time and space to discuss and develop the Labor Acknowledgement and invite more involvement from Commissioners in the process.

Commissioners and staff shared comments including how a Labor Acknowledgement instills a sense of pride and being seen, whether a retreat session could be set up for the full commission to work on developing the Labor Acknowledgement together, interest in learning more about Labor Acknowledgements, when and how a Labor Acknowledgement is used, and the need to take time for reflection.

In addition to current DEI subcommittee members, Commissioners Brown, Hoppe, Fernandez-Llamazares, Neal, Ton Williams, Kula, and Nunn volunteered to continue with this work.
