ATTACHMENT 1: CITY & STATE ENFORCEMENT MODELS

Data from actual cases demonstrated that workplace wide investigations (the City's current enforcement model) returned thirty-six (36) times the amount of wages/paid sick leave hours that would have been collected by the state if they worked the same caseload. Workplace-wide enforcement also provided remedies to thirty (30) times as many workers than individual investigations would have during the period analyzed.

Comparison of City & State Enforcement Outcomes

Figures based on actual Tacoma case data from February 1, 2016 – July, 28 2017

	# of Workers receiving owed wages or leave	Value of wages/leave returned to workers
Workplace Wide Enforcement	595	$168,927
Individual Enforcement	20	$4,672

Investigations restoring the rights of the complainant only (State Model) resulted in roughly 3% of the impact of workplace-wide investigations.

When individual investigations are used, it can be less expensive for an employer to remain non-compliant. The $4,672 that employers would have paid if the City conducted individual investigations is much less than the cost of complete compliance with the law ($168,927).

As striking as these figures are, the actual variance between State- and City-led enforcement may be even greater. The figures used in the analysis assume that the state receives the same volume of complaints as the City. Historically, this has not been the case. L&I indicated that they received just two (2) minimum wage complaints within all Tacoma zip codes in the 2015 fiscal year. By comparison, the City of Tacoma received 42 complaints in the first year of enforcement; roughly half (52%) included an alleged minimum wage violation.

Academic papers indicate that trust is an essential piece of effective enforcement, particularly in a complaint-based system like Tacoma's. Complaint-based investigations rely on a witness being willing to come forward and report violations. We have worked strategically to build this kind of trust with workers. In addition to conducting workplace-wide investigations and offering confidentiality to witnesses, we work with local community partners to reach those who are most likely to be working in lower wage, non-benefitted positions. We seek one-on-one contacts in the community to build relationships with workers.

In 2017, federal statements related to immigration have created additional barriers to trust at all levels of government. The City's rules explicitly indicate that questions will not be asked about a witness's documentation or right to work, providing a level of security for groups known nationally to be at higher risk for workplace wage violations. Currently, we have a bilingual staff member that allows the City to conduct direct outreach to Spanish-speaking workers and business owners. Academic findings indicate that this work to build trust will increase workers' willingness to report violations when they take place.

An Issue of Equity. Complaint-based systems of enforcement can reflect inequities and result in decreased protections for the most vulnerable workers. Initiating a workplace wide investigation when a complaint is received can restore the rights of precariously-employed workers who may not otherwise come forward.

ATTACHMENT 2: SIDE-BY-SIDE COMPARISON OF PAID SICK LEAVE LAWS

There are considerable differences between existing City and State paid sick leave laws. An overview is captured in the following table.

Employees exempted	City ordinance exempts government employers, employees covered by work study agreements.	Salaried workers and outside salespersons are exempted: The law uses the state's minimum wage definition of employee, which has broad exemptions for workers "employed in a bona fide executive, administrative, or professional capacity" (e.g., Overtime-exempt/salaried employees) or classified as an "outside salesperson." Specifically does apply to "individual providers" (defined by RCW 74.39A.240(s)) paid by the state.
Enforcement	Workplace-wide investigations. Workplace-wide investigations are conducted in all cases except instances of individual retaliation. Non-disclosure of witness identity offered when complainant fears harm to personal property (e.g., lost job or wages). Remedies include restoration of hours/wages owed to all employees at the worksite + possible civil penalty. Have the authority to revoke business license in egregious situations. No right to private action.	Individual Investigations. L&I plans to maintain their current practice: Individual investigations into amounts owed to complainants only. Non-disclosure is not offered. Private action and/or workplace wide investigations are available options, but they are very rarely used.
CBA Waiver	City code allows employees to explicitly waive their right to paid leave in a Collective Bargaining Agreement.	I-1433 does not include mention of a CBA waiver. While the State is currently finalizing their rules, CBA waivers are unlikely to be included as the law does not permit "any agreement between such employee and the employer allowing the employee to receive less than what is due" under state law. This same language could limit the City's ability to retain 100% of its flexible policy options.

Impacts on the rise

Total In Process

At the time of the GPFC presentation, City of Tacoma employment standards investigations had resulted in just over $38,000 worth of owed wages/leave being returned to 287 workers. Those numbers have increased greatly, with $168,927 being returned to 595 workers as of July 2017. Increases in the amounts being returned to workers are predicted to continue for two reasons:

- 1. The first reason is purely mathematical. Many employers found in violation have been failing to follow the law since February 1, 2016. As the number of months in violation increases, the amount of back pay or leave owed to workers will also increase.
- 2. Trust is an essential piece of effective enforcement. As mentioned in Attachment 1, Complaint-based investigations rely on a witness being willing to come forward and report violations. City staff are working with community partners to strategically to build this kind of trust with workers.

COMMUNITY PRESENTATIONS & OUTREACH EVENTS

2015 - Present

WE HAVE NOT DONE THIS WORK ALONE

Community Partnerships have been essential to outreach, education, and trust building efforts. In the course of this work, we have relied deeply on local collaboration. In addition to utilizing a number of advertising outlets, we partnered with more than 164 community organizations and local businesses on public education. Tacoma's innovative, community-based approach to outreach and trust building is a key part of what led to Tacoma becoming a national model for paid sick leave implementation.

The threat of civil penalties or the possibility of job loss can make it difficult for businesses with questions to come forward. By working with trade organizations and business leaders, staff have been building a positive reputation within the business community and sharing the word that Tacoma's employment standards hotline offers one-on-one support for employers.

ATTACHMENT 5: Equity Impact Statement from the Office of Equity & Human Rights (OEHR)

The City of Tacoma is committed to equitable service delivery to all residents and supporting human rights and opportunities for everyone to achieve their full potential. The City's Employment Standards' workplace wide enforcement model is an exemplary standard of what can be achieved when making purposeful and intentional equitable decisions. While individual complaint based investigations are vital and serve their purpose, work place wide investigation provides the City of Tacoma another alternative: the ability to reach everyone in the workplace and not limit service to only the few who bring a complaint forward. Individual complaint-based models tend to serve only those who are trusting of government and have a clear understanding of the law. Tacoma's model addresses the institutional inequities for those who do not feel empowered to expect and/or request what is permitted to them by law.

By retaining the current workplace wide enforcement model, the City is able to both protect and serve underrepresented individuals (those who specifically complain) and be able to identify and eliminate underlying drivers within Tacoma that perpetuate racial and socio-economic inequity. The City's Office of Equity and Human Rights (OEHR) is committed to assisting all departments as they develop sustainable methods to build capacity in achieving equitable outcomes and services. The critical test of equitable service delivery is that services are designed in a way that works for the public in its entirety, not just a certain few. Workplace wide enforcement of work standards helps to create a work environment free of discrimination and assists in the OEHR's enforcement of Tacoma Municipal Code 1.29.
