Briefing Items

3. 18-0682 Advanced Manufacturing Industry Landscape
[Linda Nguyen, CEO, Workforce Central]

At approximately 10:09 a.m., Linda Nguyen, Chief Executive Officer, WorkForce Central, made opening remarks and introduced Steve Devlin, General Manager, WestRock; Troy Goodman, President, Targa Sound Terminal; and Stephen Gear, Vice President of Energy Products and Technology Development, Bradken. Mr. Devlin, Mr. Goodman, and Mr. Gear presented background information on the companies, including an overview, history, how many employees are in each company, and how many employees are employed in Tacoma locations and are Tacoma residents. They continued on the employees' average wages, types of jobs, basic job requirements and qualifications, benefits, and on and off-the-job training. They provided information on where they source their employees from, challenges involved, hardest job openings to fill, recruiters involved in the process, entry-level recruitment, and courses and skillsets within the companies. They continued on local companies in Tacoma that are supported by the businesses, and partnerships and relationships. They further reviewed the environmental sustainability of the businesses, noting conservation programs they are involved with, water recycling, environmental impacts, and efficiency of their products. They concluded with how the companies support, engage, and are involved in the community, charitable involvement and contributions, and internship programs.

Discussion ensued regarding the Tideflats Subarea Plan, Clover Park Technical College Center for Advanced Manufacturing Technology, current federal tariff effect on the steel market, the gap between education and the workforce, work involved with high school interns, and partnership with Tacoma Public Schools. Discussion concluded on interim zoning regulations.

4. 18-0683 Workforce Development
[Linda Nguyen, CEO, Workforce Central]

At approximately 10:54 a.m., Ms. Nguyen made opening remarks and provided background information on WorkForce Central, noting leadership, how workforce development works, and partnerships. She presented statistics in Pierce County including workforce statistics and middle scale job statistics, new jobs being created, and unemployment and underemployment rates. She concluded on challenges faced in workforce development, economic growth, sector report key findings, on-the-job training, average wages in Pierce County, and how partnerships can be formed.

Discussion ensued regarding workforce statistics, age ranges of young adults who do not have a high school degree, working family wages, the iDEA School in Tacoma, partnerships, the City's strategic approach towards workforce development, and disparity studies.
